Beauty & Holistic Therapies

Introduction to the course

As the desire to look and feel good has increasingly become more important for both men and women, the demand for the services of beauty therapists has steadily increased. New techniques and innovations in treatments and products, as well as advances in medical technologies, are also driving the growth of the industry.

Most beauty therapists work in beauty salons or spas. There are also opportunities to work in hotels, medical clinics, sports injuries clinics, fitness and health clubs. Makeup specialists may also find work in the areas of fashion, media and the performing arts. There are even opportunities to work overseas, in holiday resorts or on cruise ships. Some beauty therapists are self-employed, running their own salon.

At Guernsey College of Further Education you will receive the highest level of specialist training to prepare you for entry into the beauty sector. The College has two commercially equipped salons, which are open to the public, giving learners vocationally relevant work experience throughout their course.
